

Made in Abyss - Storyline.

After listening to a voice the darkness disappears to reveal a tiny octopus in the middle of the sea. As it tries to figure out its purpose in the vast ocean it hears a voice calling it towards the depth. It embarks on a downward journey.

The journey is riddled by complicated crevices that it needs to explore and creatures that do not seem friendly. As it moves deeper the world starts losing colour and it starts finding massive human research camps. They're looking for blue shiny crystals of a compound called neptunioxine. (Our octopus can read)

As it explores the huge machines in the mining based a voice starts giving it objectives that involve hampering the machineries and consequently the mining process. As a result the human explorers try to exterminate the octopus that is causing problems. The tiny octopus uses its camouflage ability to escape after causing trouble for the miners. As it reaches new depths to escape the vengeful miners it encounters absurd looking creatures that seem to have mutated because of the neptunioxine radiation. The creatures are addicted to the crystals that the octopus is storing and therefore turn hostile towards it. Luckily the octopus is also growing stronger as it keeps moving towards the voice of the abyss. It has now unlocked a mysterious ability. It starts mind controlling the sea creatures it encounters and starts using their unique abilities to sabotage the divers' missions. While he moves deeper another voice asks the octopus to look for parts of a hidden key to unlock the treasure. After a long journey full of obstacles that include rabid sea creatures, sea curses, traps and divers, the octopus manages to collect the three parts of the key, he assembles them. Just then a voice asks him to bring it to the bottom of the sea. The other voice (now revealed to be distinct) asks the octopus to not take the key to the abyss. The forces of the ocean get centered around the octopus. Owing to his increased size strength and mind controlling powers the octopus escapes and :

Decides [addition here] - to take the key to the abyss. The octopus hands over the key to a prominent diver in the sea and it is immediately asked to leave. The octopus swims to a distance and hides. The driver joins the key parts together and fits it in its designated slot. The entire ocean feels a rumble. The parts of the stone gate start grinding against each other. A blue glow emerges from the edges of the gate. The divers' can't wait for the